

DESIGN RISK MANAGEMENT SEMINAR

“Things that Designers and the PSDP need to know”

Tuesday 29 June 2010 @ 2.00pm

City West Hotel, Saggart, Co Dublin
Tel. +353 1 401 0500 www.citywesthotel.com

Association for Project Safety and our supporters invite you to a seminar to help you better manage a number of aspects of the design risk management process.

The structures that we design should be buildable, useable and maintainable.

As one of the keys to successful outcomes is using competent people Clients will be seeking to appoint competent organisations. How can you evidence your competence without getting bogged down in masses of questionnaires and bureaucracy?

Falling from height is still the biggest cause of immediate death on construction sites. What can be done in the preparatory stages to ensure that work at height issues are eliminated or easily managed during the construction phase?

The role and responsibility of designers and the PSDP regarding Temporary Works Design and Coordination will be addressed with a detailed case study of design and construction of a bridge at height..

Once our building is up, how is it going to be kept clean? What can we do to ensure that nobody's life is put at risk when the outside of our client's building is being cleaned and maintained?
